15,000 GREEK AND ARMENIAN CHILDREN TAKEN TO SAFETY

Fifteen thousand Greek and Armenian orphan children have been taken to safety by the Near East Relief since the Kemalists returned to power in Constantinople and Anatolia. The children all were outfitted with light blue uniforms and service caps and when the boys had received their blanket rolls and comfort bags they looked like so many miniature French soldiers. American men and women in the service of the N. E. R. saw to it that they were provided with sufficient foodstuffs for the journey through the historic Dardanelles, Marmora and Aegean seas, to their new homes in Greece. Photo shows: Top—Armenian orphans embarking at Constantinople. Bottom—Just a few of the 15,000 children on the wharf at Constantinople, all dressed up in their new uniforms.

WHEN THERE'S A QUAKE—HE TELLS THE WORLD

Father Francis A. Tondorf, S. J., chief of the Seismological Service of Georgetown University, is shown with the Seismograph, that delicate instrument that records earthquakes occurring on any part of the globe. By these means the world is kept informed of any quake, be it ever so slight. There are few of these seismographs in existence, but due to the large amount of trouble attached to taking care of them, not many are kept in constant operation. However the one at the University is always busy, and has imparted information of great value to scientists.

THE EXECUTORS OF SIX GREEK MINISTERS

Here are four members of the Revolutionary Committee of Greece, leaving the warehouse of the American Red Cross, in The Pirneus, port of Athens, where they have just inspected newly arrived supplies for a million refugees. These are the most talked of men in Europe today. After dethroning King Constantine and inciting a revolution in the Greek Government, they ordered the court martial of Goumaris, former prime minister, four of his associates and General Hatzianestis. These six officials were shot within a few hours of the verdict. The four "revolutionaries" are, left to right: Vice-Admiral Hatzikyriacos (in naval uniform), now commander-in-chief of the navy; Col. Stylianos Gonatas, former chief of the revolutionary group, now prime minister and acting minister of war; Col. Nicolaos Plastiras, the man who signed the death warrant for the six ministers, and Col. Loucas A. Sakellaropoulos, now minister of communications. The authors of the Greek revolution are deeply impressed with the American Red Cross relief for refugees.

Public Utilities Committee Reports on One Man Cars

FROM THE AMERICAN ELECTRIC RAILWAY ASSOCIATION, 8 WEST 40TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

After an extended inquiry into the use of the one-man car, the Public Utilities Committee of the Philadelphia, Penn. Chamber of Commerce has just made public a report declaring that one-man cars are not more dangerous than two-men cars, and that they provide transit facilities in some cities which, if it were not for the one-man car, would be without service. Agitation against them is largely unfounded and based on sentimental misinformation, the report further declared.

The Committee, composed of engineers and others of long experience in public utility matters, based its report on a careful study of the experience of 136 cities in the United States with the one-man car. The inquiry was prompted by agitation in Philadelphia against the one-man car following the unsubstantiated charge that it was responsible for increased accidents.

The Committee shows that 7,000 one-man cars are in use in the United States and that the Public Service Commissions in twenty states have approved them.

"There are," the report said, "three main tests by which the performance of one-man trolley cars should be judged: first, their service to the public; second, their value to the railway company; and third, their effect upon the conditions of the working man who are called upon to operate them. Judged by these standards:

"(1) They have enabled the companies to render more frequent service than would be possible with two-man cars.

"(2) They have given safer service and have reduced the hazards of the ordinary daily car rider.

"(3) They have reduced the operating expenses of street railways thus enabling some which otherwise would have had to abandon their lines to continue service, others to escape receiverships, and still others (as already mentioned,) to operate at a lower rate of fare.

"(4) They have enabled platform men to earn a higher average rate of wages.

"Your Committee recognizes that many problems have been introduced within the transportation system of Philadelphia by the increasing usage of one-man cars and therefore directed its attention to securing data covering the automatic and semi-automatic safety facilities which have become an integral part of properly designed and constructed cars for this service, and begs to report that while there are problems still to be overcome in the operation of one-man trolleys, yet it is believed that the safety features referred to, which have been incorporated into these cars when properly designed and equipped, afford adequate safety of operation when the personnel in charge of the cars is properly instructed and thoroughly inspected to insure rigid observance of the operating rules laid down by the management, and it is the duty of every passenger to assist the management wherever infractions of known rules are discovered by a passenger, by reporting to the management such infractions where observed.

"The data obtained by this Committee shows that one-man cars are in very general use in 136 cities of the United States—in many of these cities on practically all routes. In the larger cities, the use seems to be confined more generally to larger cities, the use seems to be confined more generally to use as feeders to main trunk lines cities, but in the smaller cities, the one-man trolley is used throughout, for all classes of service, and apparently with great satisfaction. It is the opinion of your Committee, however, that in a city of the size of Philadelphia, the proper field for the operation of one-man trolleys is probably going to be found in their use as feeders to trunk lines and as full service use in the less densely settled portions of the city.

"It is probably unnecessary to point out the great interest which the public has in extending the use of one-man cars so far as it is compatible with the situations which we have outlined above, because in most instances, if one-man trolleys are not put into use, either the section will do without any transportation or will have to put up with the uses of one-man busses or jitneys, either of which introduce hazards and uncertainty not possessed by the one-man trolley with its more regular schedule of operation.

"Unless such use of one-man trolleys is permitted and encouraged, alternatives are the use of less safe one-man busses or the complete abandonment of such service to such communities."

Bright Velvet or Satin.

Paris, Feb. 17.—Long narrow folds of bright velvet or satin are the chief decorations on some of the gowns of today built among classic lines and in subdued shades. One gown of such true Grecian cut that it might have been copied from a figure on an ancient turn was in smoke gray crepe with long bands, from neck to hem, of geranium chiffon velvet.

Patches in Fashion.

London, Feb. 17.—Patches are in fashion today for perhaps the first time since the world began to mend its clothes. These however, are not patches which mend, but which ornament. Bits of crepe or of ribbon, sewn in rows of the raggedest outline and most haphazard stitchery are seen on many chic suits.

Scarf With Monogram.

London, Feb. 17.—One of the latest fancies today is that of the scarf with a monogram. In crepe de chine or chiffon in a plain color, a scarf of this sort, very voluminous has a monogram embroidered at one end and is worn over the evening gown.

Gloves More Intricate.

New York, Feb. 17.—Gloves seem to become more intricate in spring [illegible]. The gauntlets are [illegible] decorated not merely with [illegible] of different color [illegible] with embroidery. This [illegible] in silk and often in metallic thread.

Require Uncorseted Look.

New York, Feb. 17.—The way around rather snugly fit [illegible] of today require an uncorseted look which may usually be obtained only through wearing corsets. These however must be carefully fitted and of the most supple sort.

Woolen Suits in Gay Colors.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 17.—There is a multiplicity of woolen suits in gay colors shown here on the beaches today. Usually the gaiety of such suits has been supplied in part by scarfs of contrasting colors but this season most of the bright suits have bright scarfs to match. These scarfs differ from those of other seasons in being very large.

Striking Comb.

New York, Feb. 17.—One interesting head dress to be seen just now is the comb which hugs the back of the head almost all the way across. The hair is done simply back from the forehead but over the ears. The comb high and wide, stands up above the back of the head in striking fashion.

Tremaine Wins Bout.

New York, Feb. 17.—Carl Tremaine, bantamweight champion-to-be, sure as slow poison, scored a technical knockout over Irish Johnny Curtin in the sixth round at Madison Square Garden last night when the latter declined to continue an uneven battle and was counted out while standing on his feet embracing Patsey Haley, the referee.

Curtin had entered a claim of foul, a protest that was allowed neither by Haley nor the club physician, who examined Curtin immediately after he had gained his corner.

As in all of his previous appearances here, Tremaine had everything. He carried the fight by rounds with a wide margin, was held to an even break in the third, almost tore Curtin apart with terrific right hooks to the body in the fourth and was shaded just a bit in the fifth. What there was of the final round before he alleged foul belonged to Tremaine easily.

Bouts at Columbus.

Columbus—Tom Bently, Allegheny association amateur champion, representing the Wilmerding, Pennsylvania, Y. M. C. A., defeated Dale Willison, Croton, World war veteran, in a four-round contest. Ed Chapman, Ohio State university amateur boxer, knocked down and defeated Bill Edgington, Ohio Wesleyan. Both men weighed 125 pounds.

DELAWARE TAKES GAME FROM HARDING HIGH

Takes Long End of Twenty-Seven-to-Twenty-Four Score.

TWO OVERTIME PERIODS NECESSARY FOR DECISION

In one of the hardest fought and roughest games that Harding High has been in this year, the team lost to Delaware at the armory Friday night by three points. Delaware managed to get one basket and a foul in the last of the second five-minute overtime period.

Twice Harding High and Delaware were tied, at the end of the regular allowance of time and at the end of the first five-minute overtime period. Both teams fought with a zeal that could hardly be surpassed and a great many of the numerous fouls called were unavoidable and were not the result of a loss of temper. On the whole both teams played as cleanly as was possible for them in the type of game that they put up.

More free throws were granted last night than any other night on the Harding floor this year. Delaware had seventeen free shots and Harding twenty-one. Harding scored twelve out of the twenty-one and Delaware was successful in caging eleven of the seventeen shots. For Harding, Applegett scored ten fouls; Penry one and Schoenlaub one. Mason scored six fouls for Delaware and Salters looped five.

The game was unique in the matter of scoring. The first score was made three and a half minutes after play began when Applegett dropped in a free throw. Neither team scored a field goal in the first quarters. After six minutes of the second quarter had sped by, Sands, of Delaware, dropped in a beautiful long shot from beyond the center of the floor. From then shots alternated until the half ended with Delaware in the lead five to three.

Leads by One Point.

At the end of the third quarter Harding led by one point, the score being fifteen to fourteen. The score climbed from there to twenty-one apiece at the end of the last quarter. A five-minute overtime period was called and at the completion of this time each team had scored one basket and one foul. Another five-minute period was given then Delaware broke loose and succeeded in looping a field basket, a long one by Johnson, and a free throw made by Mason. Harding failed to score.

Every man on the Harding team fought hard and did his best. Brickley played his usual steady offensive and defensive game and Applegett and Penry worked the forward positions for all they were worth. Schoenlaub, who went in a few minutes after the second quarter began, played a hard game. His offense was fine and his defense showed speed. Starr played a hard game and most of his work was on the defense. Sifritt was as usual steady, feeding the shots to the other players with his remarkable passing ability and playing an all-around good game.

Jackson and Mason were the ones that the Harding High cagers had to watch last night. Mason was strong on close shots and Jackson's long ones more than once took the breath from the Harding High fans. His accuracy in finding the basket from beyond the center of the floor was uncanny, in all of his shots with one exception he struck the rim of the basket. Mason was a fast and shifty floor man and his speedy dribbling was beautiful to watch and one of the big features of the game. Captain Salters was the other man that was watched closely by the local cagers.

Harding Reserves again demonstrated their superiority when they took the fast Munies into camp with a score of thirteen to nine.

The Sportsman
By Walter Camp

Copyright, 1923, by the Marion Star.

New York, Feb. 17.—As golf pro after golf pro arrives in these chilly latitudes from the southland tales of woe multiply. The burden of complaint, of course, ... to the cancellation of tours ... which the professionals had counted upon to carry them through the winter.

From testimony that has come to hand to date, it would seem that the last persons to censure for these fading golf tournaments are those who attempted to organize them. Perchance when the professional golfers' association looks into the matter it will find that the wrench in the southern golf mechanism was thrown by the professionals themselves.

For indications are that the trouble relates almost exclusively to the discrepancy between the drawing power of the major and the minor star. We have heard nothing to indicate that such players as Hagen, Sarazen, Hutchison and others approximately of their class are not having a pleasant, not to say lucrative time in Dixie.

Not Surprising.

Since they are professionals and therefore out for all the money they can get, it is by no means surprising that they should enlist in exhibition foursomes and the like in return for handsome fees whereas lesser lights must be content with the smaller returns derived from tournaments.

Again, tournaments which fail to draw the blazing luminaries are ... to ... the ... thereof ... so great and ... as to cause them to withdraw from their projects, leaving the tournaments and ... those who had expected to play in them flat.

The remedy, of course, is a community of interest among the guild of professional golfers which will, among other things, move them to proceed under some such scheme as is implied in the motto of these United States—"pluribus unum; one for all and all for one, to apply a popular, if not strictly accurate interpretation.

But what has come to pass? Yes, when the taxicab driver waves away a tip, when a big league baseball club declares a general raise in salaries and when the Standard Oil reduces the price of gasoline to ten cents a gallon.

Not Very Friendly.

Impressions gathered at the current dog show in New York are subordinated to one great impression, which is that the average thoroughbred dog is not a very friendly beast. Perhaps the restricted diet, the unceasing manicuring, combing and scouring they receive spoils their dispositions, or perhaps blue blood in the canine connotes cantankerousness. However this may be, the fact remains that leaving the Westminster Kennel club exhibition at the Madison Square Garden your soul rejoices as the unkempt street mutts run up to you with amiable eyes and wagging tails.

MANY THEORIES ABOUT JOIE RAY'S GREATNESS

Successes Show He Possesses Strong Characteristics.

HAS COURAGE, PLUCK AND HIGH CONFIDENCE

Muscular Development Makes It Possible for Him To Run Without Wobbling.

[BY WALTER CAMP.]

Copyright, 1923, by the Marion Star.

New York, Feb. 17.— Many are the theories that can be heard today wherever lovers of amateur sports gather as to the foundation of Joie Ray's greatness, his ability. A study of them for the last two years, and particularly since he started his phenomenal successes of the winter, shows him to possess an unusual combination of characteristics.

Ray not only has the heart, speaking physiologically to run great races but he also has the heart, physiologically speaking, which makes for courage, pluck, confidence, stamina. He has the chest room that a distance runner needs and he has the remarkable muscular development in the thighs which was characteristic of such sprinters as Duffy and Drew. This makes it possible for him to get on a pace without wobbling and put in his drive with steadiness and firmness which at the same time conserves his energy.

Defeat Expected.

Ray's defeat by Ritola was almost to be expected. The latter is a splendid runner. His ninety-yard handicap was too great even for Ray, who was only about sixty yards behind him at the finish.

If it is true that Charlie Paddock will compete in the Penn relays it will be a great card for Philadelphia, and if, as is rumored now, there is a chance of his appearing at the intercollegiates, it will add immensely to the interest taken in these, for it should be remembered that there has been a year of argument and speculation as to whether Paddock can, in competition in the East, repeat his remarkable sprinting done on the Pacific Coast and in the Sandwich islands. Every one is particularly anxious to have the "speed merchant" show his wares in competition with the flyers of the East.

To Develop Runners.

A. A. U. officials and all authorities interested in the Paris Olympic games are today getting their shoulders to the wheel to develop, if possible, distance runners for the American team. And it is well that they are doing this because this has been a weakness recognizable and admitted in our men. It is late in the day to develop new and unknown men for such work but the effort will be well worth making for future results.

In view of Captain W. R. Milligan's announcement that he has entered his Oxford team in the Penn relay carnival two mile events, it is important that Americans remember that, although hope was expressed that an Oxford-Cambridge team would compete, the Oxford teams themselves have given us something to do in the past.

In 1914 Oxford sent a relay team to this carnival to run in the four mile event and the contest produced one of the greatest races that have ever been seen in any country. Jackson, the long-legged Oxonian, and Olympic 1500-meter champion entered the last relay slightly behind McCurdy of Penn, and the Englishman won in a terrific finish just by inches. In 1920 Oxford-Cambridge sent a combined team for the 2-mile event and not only won but set up a new world record of seven minutes fifty and two-fifths seconds.

HARDING SENIOR GIRLS DEFEAT JUNIOR FIVE

Take Cage Game by Score of Twenty-One to Eight.

The senior girls defeated the junior girls in a basketball game at the high-school gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The game was well attended. The ending was never in doubt, as the seniors were easily superior to their opponents in every phase of the game. Mildred Crow was the big star for the seniors on the offense and Catherine Glosser starred for the victors on the defense. Crow scored most of the points for the seniors, piling up eleven points. Vestal was not far behind, with a total of ten points.

Helen Wheeler and Mary Hughs starred for the junior team. Wheeler was a member of the girls' team at Bucyrus last year and they played under the regulation rules. Hughs played the best defensive game of the juniors. The line-ups:

Seniors, 21.	Pos.	Juniors, 8.
Vestal	r.f.	Wheeler
Crow	l.f.	Crock
Waddel	r.c.	McVey

BABE RUTH STARTS TO TRAIN FOR GAMES

American League Club To Send Him to Hot Springs.

GREAT DEAL STAKED ON HOME-RUN HITTER

Opinion Is Held That He Will Have Difficult Time Coming Back.

[BY JOHN B. FOSTER.]

New York, Feb. 17.—Babe Ruth has taken down his old dinner bucket and started to work. For ten weeks from today he will live at the expense of the owners of the New York American league club who are solicitous about his weight, health and temperament. They have a lot of money invested in these commodities.

They are sending him to Hot Springs, Ark., thence to New Orleans and thence North to hit home runs. Do not be deluded into thinking that the Babe is going to get his early spring grab free in order for his employers to find out if he is a ball player. He has been sent to specialize in reducing his corporation which is not incorporated, to get all the lurking microbic organisms out of his system and to strengthen his muscles and sharpen his eye for batting home runs. For if Babe does not bat home runs with freedom and frequency this summer the man who signed him to a three year contract will wish he had tempered impetuosity with hindsight.

Great Deal Staked.

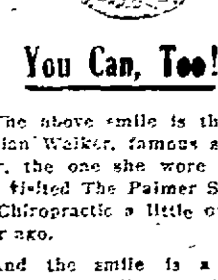

The club which is paying the home-run hitter is staking a great deal of its future on his ability to splurge with the bat just once more. In the opinion of men who have looked him over, he will have the hardest time doing it that he has ever had to do anything in baseball. He can't afford to monkey for a moment. The Yanks might win the championship if Ruth never made another home run, but the sacrifice the player is expected to make on Yankee field is a procession of home runs that will attract every man woman and boy athletically inclined from Goose Neck to the Harlem river.

More than that, this city of 7,000,000 sophisticated simps is laying wagers as to whether he will or he won't. Even money is offered that he makes forty home runs and one to three that he does not break his own record.

Brooklyn has traded Hy Myers who has outfielded on Long Island almost since the time Washington crossed the Gowanus canal, for Jacques Fournier. Neither side got the worst of it. It was not possible, Brooklyn also traded Clarence Mitchell, the only lefthand spitball artist left in baseball, for George Smith of Philadelphia. Each pitcher is as likely to owe the president of the league as the other when they come to make up the 1923 averages.

Probably St. Louis, which owned Fournier, figures that Hy Myers will take the place of McHenry. He may stand in McHenry's place but he won't carry it away with him. Fournier can bat and Brooklyn has not had a batting firstbaseman since Jake Daubert.

"Keep Smiling"

You Can, Too!

The above smile is that of Lillian Walker, famous screen star, the one she wore when she visited The Palmer School of Chiropractic a little over a year ago.

And the smile is a real Chiropractic smile, too, for as Lillian testifies, it was the science of Chiropractic that saved her life only a few years ago.

You, too, can have that kind of a smile. Any one will develop a smile when the health is good. And Chiropractic can bring you good health.

The Spark Plug.

A very large proportion of missing, and irregular running of the auto engine, is due to a faulty spark plug. The action of the engine, when there is a faulty spark plug, is, however, very similar to the action when there is loss of compression in one cylinder. A test only will tell which is at fault.

In studying the faults of a spark plug, let us first see what its action is, and how the spark is formed.

In the illustration A is the body of the plug, which is screwed into the cylinder of the engine, and so makes an excellent electrical contact—that is, passage for the electrical current—with it. D is of non-conducting material, through which the current can not go from the rod C to the body of the plug. C is a rod to which the electric wire is attached, and is called an electrode, while B, also called an electrode, is a heavy wire attached to the body of plug. The space between the electrodes, E is called the spark gap.

You were told previously, that the flow of an electric current can be compared to the flow of water, the two acting very much the same, and to a large extent following the same laws of nature. Thus, it requires a pressure—called voltage—to make electricity flow through a wire just as it does to make water flow through a pipe.

Study for a moment figure 2. Here water could flow through the passages Z, Y, X, were it not for the small portion W of the containing material. If, however, the material of which W is made, were not very strong, then if the pressure of the water were greatly raised, eventually this pressure would be so great as to cause the material of W to crack, and so the water would burst through.

If W be made thicker, it would require a much higher pressure for the water to burst through. This would also be true if the material were stronger.

Again, if the containing material at some point, say U, were to develop a crack of weakness of some sort, so as to be weaker at this point than the material at W, then the water would burst through at this point before it would burst through at W.

Compare now figures 1 and 2. Does not the air space around F in figure 1? Air is a non-conductor of electricity and the insulation of this wire, the porcelain D of the plug, and the air around the bottom of the electrodes below the porcelain, appear to make a passage for the electric current through F, C and B, just as the material of figure 2 makes the passage Z, Y and X for the water, and will not the flow of the electric current be stopped by the air of the gap E just as the flow of the water is stopped by the material of W. Likewise the current will burst through the air space, or air gap, if the pressure—or air voltage—is high enough, just as the water will burst through W.

Now, when the electricity bursts through an air gap a hot spark will be generated and the cracking of the air can be distinctly heard. You have often seen this action during a thunder storm. The electricity which has gathered on the clouds tries to flow from one to the other, and is prevented by the air between, but as the clouds come closer together, the air becomes thinner and too weak to resist it, and so the electricity bursts through, giving out the spark, "lightning," and you hear the "cracking of the air, in the thunder.

Thus we see that when a current of high-voltage—pressure—electricity is sent through the wire F to the spark plug, it will pass through the electrode C and then jump the air gap E, giving the required work as it does so.

Let us see what "troubles" the spark plug is subject to. First of all we know that it required a high voltage to make the current jump the gap. As the voltage of a magneto or generator is dependent upon the speed of its armature, but a comparatively low voltage is generated when the engine is being cranked, which voltage is often too low to give a spark. Thus, with many systems of ignition, and especially those on a big and hard-to-crank engine, a battery must be furnished in addition to the magneto, while in many smaller engines it is often necessary to vigorously spin the crank before the engine will start.

The greater the air gap, the greater will have to be the voltage, and if the gap is too great the voltage will not be high enough to give a spark. Here, too, is one of the reasons why an engine will often run perfectly at high speed and miss at the lower speed. We have seen that a lower voltage is generated at low speed than high, so when the gap is a little too great, there will be a spark at high speed and none at low, about 1-33 of an inch is the correct distance apart for the points.

As the kind of material will affect the pressure required for the water to burst through, so the condition of the air or gas about the spark-plug points will affect the voltage required. It takes a higher voltage to jump across a compressed mixture of gas and air than it does to jump across pure air. Thus there will be a miss, when the points are a little too far apart, and the car is ascending a hill with the throttle wide open, as under this condition the compression will be high.

This—the condition of the gas affecting the spark—teaches another lesson; namely, that it is wise to carefully watch the distance of the spark-plug points, especially in winter. When starting in cold weather, it is generally necessary to make the mixture very rich, and should the points be a little too far apart there will be no spark in the cylinder, even though the usual spark tests would indicate one. Closing the points a little will often facilitate starting.

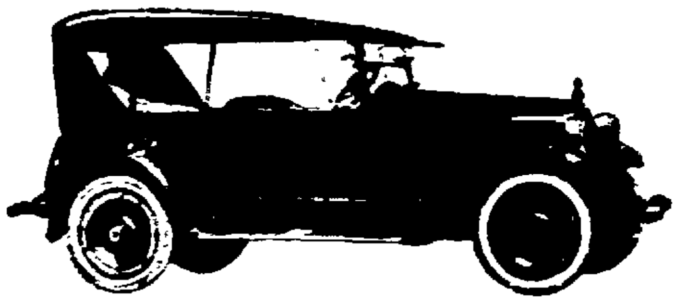

As the containing material of figure 2, will allow the water to escape before it breaks through W, in case of a crack or weakness in it, so will the electric current escape across the porcelain of the plug in case of a crack, or its being coated with carbon or oil, before it can jump the gap. In this case we say that the plug is short-circuited.

Many plugs are so designed that, when the porcelain is cracked—the slightest crack, often only of the glaze, will cause a short-circuit—a new porcelain can be put in, without purchasing an entire new plug.

It is a decided economy to buy only the best plug. A real good plug will often last for from 20,000 to 30,000 miles, while a cheap and poor plug will yield but 1,000 and sometimes even less.

URGES HOMES BE MADE LARGE ENOUGH FOR GOD

DECLARES BETTER HOME LIFE IS NEED OF TODAY

Bases Sermon on Bible Story of Shunammite Woman Who Adds Room to House.

"Above all things, make your home big enough for God and the boys and girls will not get away from it," said Dr. George Wood Anderson in his sermon on "Mothers" at the union evangelistic services at the Calvary Evangelical church Friday afternoon.

After a song service conducted by Walter Jenkins, Dr. Jesse Swank offered prayer and then Mr. Jenkins, accompanied at the piano by Bentley D. Ackley, sang a solo, "His Love Is Everywhere."

Dr. Anderson told the story of the Shunammite woman, as found in II Kings 4, and applied it to modern times. He took for his text part of the eighth verse of that chapter, "Where was a great woman?"

The story is that of a Shunammite woman who added a room to her house for Elisha, God's representative, to occupy whenever he passed her way.

"God has given unto every woman a power that can never be destroyed," said Dr. Anderson, "and that power is to keep her home.

"It is seldom now we find a home big enough, large enough for God, even for the Bible. There are many other things in the home we consider very important, but they can never take the place of the things that have been crowded out. Who is responsible for this? The mother.

"Authority is given every mother to open and close the door of her home when she sees fit. Therefore God has given to every mother the right to say what shall enter the life of her boy or girl.

Better Home Life.

"The need of today is a better home life.

"In our text we have the picture of one mother and that mother was great because she knew how to manage her home. When she saw the man of God go by she said to her husband, 'Let us make our home large enough so that we can have an extra room for this man of God.' Here was a woman who wanted another room, not to entertain more guests, but to make room in her home for God. Our home must be big enough for God to dwell in. She was a great woman. She had courage enough to talk about Christianity to her husband.

"Make Religion Natural."

"Why is it, we talk about every other matter we want to, to those near us but religion. Why do you talk about dollars and cents, the price of sugar and shoes and how to save, and never have the courage to talk about the soul of those near you. So much of the religious life is spoiled because of the unnatural way people have of talking about spiritual things. It seems to me like the most natural things we could talk about at the table are the things of God. There is not one part of the Christian life that can not be spoiled by our being unnatural about it. Let us make religion as natural as breathing, as sweet as life itself.

"Then another thing, this woman was not afraid to talk religion to her husband, but she was putting up a proposition to him that was going to cost something. She said 'I propose to change the whole order of our house.' It costs to make room for God—the giving up of a cherished desire. The woman put up a program that cost, but it was worth it and her husband knew it was worth it, to have a representative of God in their home. They did not build the room back where it could not be seen, but built it on the wall, gave it the most prominent place, where everybody could see. When we come out clean cut for God and remodel our house where every one can see we have a place in it for God, then you will have a life and a home that is going to be blessed of God. To be of service to God does not add to the burden of life; there is no drudgery when God is in the heart.

"When the woman's son said to his mother one day he wanted to go out in the field with the men, there were tears in her eyes; her baby had gone, her little baby was now a young man. But when the lad was out in the sun he became ill. No one told him to keep out of the hot sun. The mother had seen to it that nothing had come into her home to mar her child, but when he got out into the world there was no one to tell him of the danger before him.

"America had the courage to close the saloon and by the grace of God may they never come back, but there are other sins and men will not tell the youths about them.

"The men in the field let the lad remain out in the hot sun, but did not tell him it would hurt him. It is not only the men in the field, but there are many good women in the community who do not say to our boys and girls, 'The sun is too hot.'

"You and I dare not call ourselves followers of Jesus Christ unless we have love in our hearts for every boy and girl and tell them 'The sun is hot.' Religion begins first in the heart and we must surrender that heart to God.

Take Him to His Mother.

"After awhile the lad put his hands up to his head and cried, 'Oh, my head.' As he fell the men did not know what to do with him and said, 'Take him to his mother.' When our sons and daughters are hurt by the hot sun of life and we don't know what to do with them we carry them back to their mothers. But if we could only save them from the hot sun, think of how we could save the mothers the heartaches.

"The boy was taken to his mother and there he died. Even in the best of homes children sometimes fail. But this woman demanded them to place her child in God's room. The most pathetic mother is the one who has her home overcrowded with has no place to go to God. She does not want the frivolity of the dance hall and theater in the presence of her dead child, but when death comes wants the presence of God.

"When this woman's son died she had a room in her home in which she could take her son, the room she had set aside for God. She then started out to meet the prophet of God and when he met her he said, 'Is it well with thee?' she said, 'It is well.' Is it well with thy husband, is it well with the child?' She answered, 'It is well.' Her boy was dead, but she had not been responsible for his death. He might have been a drunkard or a gambler, but he had not learned to drink or gamble in her home.

"The prophet came into her home and made his way to the room on the wall and there her dead was with God. Later he called her and there mother and son were reunited in each other's arms. The arm of God had rewarded the faithful mother. When we have our homes big enough for God, He will bring our lost ones back to us. God has never failed to answer the consistent prayers of a Christian mother.

"I believe if we live that life and make room for God in our homes, God will see to it that the boy who goes astray, comes back. Thank God for the mothers like that Shunammite woman. So above all things make your homes big enough for God and then the boys will not get away from it."

THE BUSINESS WORLD TODAY

By Special Correspondents.

[BY J. A. FOWLER.]

Copyright, 1923, by the Marion Star.

New York, Feb. 17.—Manufacturers of railroad equipment are planning increased plant capacity as a result of demands now being made upon them. Some of the companies probably could operate at a profit throughout 1923 on the orders they now have if not another dollar's worth of equipment was bought until December 31.

There has been no check in the flood of orders for new railroad equipment since January 1. Unfilled orders for locomotives alone today amount to over $125,000,000, according to railroad men. Orders for freight and passenger cars have been on an equally extraordinary scale. Conservative estimates of capital expenditures by the railroads of the country throughout the coming year, including new tracks, cars and locomotives, are placed at $700,000,000. The equipment can not be turned over complete to the railroads in less than six months.

An accurate indication of the extent of the movement for additional equipment among the carriers is found in the order of the Pennsylvania railroad company for 275 locomotives, placed in one lot, with the Baldwin Locomotive works. This brings the total ordered by that road since January 1 to 500 engines.

The Norfolk & Western will be in the market within a short time for 1,000 box cars, 2,000 coal cars, eighteen passenger locomotives and eighty freight engines.

Railroads in western territory are shopping for approximately 20,000 freight cars and several hundred locomotives. The Terminal railroad in St. Louis alone has determined to put $16,000,000 into improvements and new equipment immediately with an additional program involving $35,000,000 in prospect.

The rush of manufacturers to lay in stocks of raw materials and the demand for finished products has taxed the freight capacity of the railroads to the utmost this month and it is expected that export shipments will speed up as a result of favorable action by congress on the British debt settlement measure.

The electrification of railroads, which as yet has scarcely been touched is expected to advance tremendously this year and in anticipation of this, the general Electric company and American Locomotive company have entered into an agreement whereby the electric locomotives of each company will approach each other more closely in design and construction.

This activity is calling for a constantly increasing number of skilled artisans and mechanics. Possible wage trends in the metal trades were indicated today by announcement that several thousand employes of the Saco-Lowell Machine shops in New England will receive a wage increase effective February 26.

The winter sales of the Ford Motor company have been larger than the most optimistic estimates, according to reports from Detroit today. The output for February is now expected to reach 125,000 cars. With 105,000 vehicles turned out in January, the first two months of the year are expected to exceed the records for the corresponding months last year by 130,000 cars.

The call for trucks has been such as to induce some manufacturers of commercial vehicles to double their production schedules for the next few months.

Demand for farm labor in the Northwest is not confined to the United States. Calls for assistance in this regard are coming from the Canadian grain fields and the Canadian Pacific railroad is conducting a vigorous campaign abroad, in Great Britain, Belgium, Holland and Denmark, to attract farm laborers to the Northwest.

Sales of copper have reached surprising proportions in the last week both for domestic consumption and for export and the copper properties of the west are gradually increasing output.

Rail Service Improving.

Boston, Feb. 17.—Railroad service throughout New England is steadily improving although there is still a good deal of congestion at junction points. It is still difficult to obtain early deliveries of many essential building materials such as plumbing and heating supplies.

Big Gain in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—Freight tonnage received and originated at St. Paul terminals last year totaled 19,750,000 tons, a gain of 2,500,000 tons over the previous year.

Americans Less Affected.

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—Figures compiled by local shipping men indicate that, while there has been a decrease in passenger travel to the Orient in the last three months, American ships have been less affected by this falling off than have the Japanese liners, and that the American records in proportion to those of the Japanese and Canadian traffic are almost phenomenal.

[BY PHIL HANNA.]

Detroit, Feb. 17.—Despite the fact that manufacturing operations are being carried on at an unprecedented rate and that other factors of the business situation except transportation are favorable, the industrial leaders of Detroit are beginning to voice a note of caution. No fear is expressed as to the continuation of good business conditions throughout the year but there is an undercurrent of sentiment that [illegible] is speeding up too fast."

There is a [illegible] scramble [illegible] to obtain raw materials and to keep the heavy volume of finished goods moving forward.

[BY W. W. THOMAS.]

Atlanta, Feb. 17.—The cold weather of this week has produced a good demand for winter dry goods at the local department stores and there has been little if any slackening in buying of spring lines.

Wholesalers report a satisfactory business from salesmen on the road, all lines for spring and summer being in good demand among retailers in the rural districts.

Voluntary reduction by fifty per cent. of the freight rate on calcium arsenate by southern carriers is expected to effect a decided reduction in the price of the boll weevil poison to consumers.

Window Glass Trade.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17.—Window glass plants are making shipments today at a record rate. All lines of glass are strong with plant output of plate glass quickly taken. The automobile trade is still absorbing tremendous amounts of plate glass.

Dairy Products.

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 17.—The Bridgeman-Russell Butter company announced today that it would construct at once a $200,000 plant with $175,000 worth of equipment at Long Island City. The plant will employ 150 workers.

Packing-House Products.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Trade is not very satisfactory today in packing-house products, although a slight improvement is noted in cured meats. Export trade is dead.

[BY J. N. FINING.]

St. Louis, Feb. 17.—The first really cold weather of the winter has slackened trade to some extent in this section, but has offered retail establishments an excellent chance to exhibit the remainder of their winter stocks at bargain prices and clear out their shelves through special sales.

The forced let-up in building construction has not been unwelcome, as it has tended to check for the time the trend toward higher prices for materials, especially lumber. Manufacture continues far in excess of normal in this territory.

Great Strawberry Center.

New Orleans, Feb. 17.—The more tender blooms on the strawberry plants in Tangipahoa parish, probably the largest strawberry producing center in the United States, were pinched off by the recent cold spell, but the plants were not injured and new blooms still will take place of the old. Ripening and shipping will be late, however.

Texas Strawberries.

Dallas, Feb. 17.—East Texas strawberries are today coming on the market in good quantities and sell from four dollars to five dollars a crate. East Texas fruit trees did not suffer as a result of recent storms and prospects for a profitable yield are bright.

Cotton Yarns.

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Carpet manufacturers are actively in the market today for cotton yarns for delivery as late as August. Some numbers are obtainable around forty-three to forty-four cents which it would cost forty-five cents to replace at present cotton prices. A good business is being handled in combed yarns.

Washington and Oregon Lumber.

Seattle, Feb. 17.—It was impossible today to estimate how long will be the close down of the Washington and Oregon lumber mills and camps as a result of the blizzard. An unprecedented depth of snow and ice cover the upper hills and valleys of the Cascade range and a thaw threatens great damage to bridges and logging railroads.

Non-Ferrous Metals.

Miami, Okla., Feb. 17.—The Eagle Picher company has produced more than $16,000,000 in lead and zinc.

Today it is preparing to extend its plant and operations.

Clothing.

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—Manufacturers of women's and men's wearing apparel reported today that they were operating at capacity. There is particular activity in the factories making working clothes.

Tobacco.

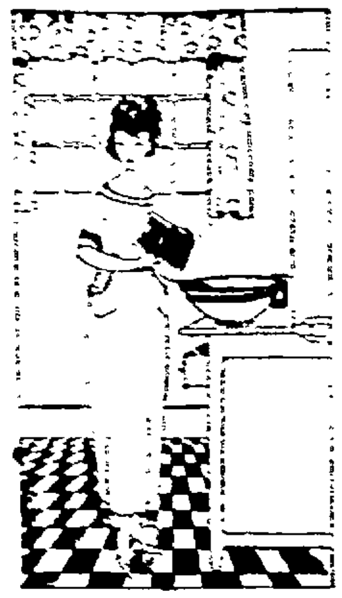

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—The greatly increased demand for American cigarets in the Orient was emphasized this week when 200 tons of American-made smokes were loaded for Chinese ports. Large shipments also have been made recently to Japan and Australia.

Iron and Steel.

Cleveland, Feb. 17.—Demand for pig iron has been heavy here and over 5,000,000 tons of ore were consumed in the last month. Steamship men stated today that large inroads would be made in stocks at the lake front and furnace yards by May 1.

Crude Oil Stimulates.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17. — Steadily rising prices of crude oil are stimulating purchases of tubular goods today. Oil companies and pipe lines have been urging quick delivery on old orders and closing addition contracts. The market for pipe and tubes is strong at recent advances.

A Big Order.

Sharon, Feb. 17.—The Standard Tank company has booked an order for the American Products company. The cars will cost about $200,000.

The Coal Situation.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 17.—Vessel men here declared today that supplies of anthracite at upper lake ports will be exhausted by March 1 and that from then until the opening of navigation the Northwest will have to depend on bituminous fuel.

Renewed Activity.

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—Renewed activity in the Southwestern coal fields has followed the ironing out of differences between miners and operators and the renewal of the present wage scale for another year.

Operating at Capacity.

Quak, Okla., Feb. 17.—The Noble Oil & Gas company is operating its absorption plant at capacity today and is turning out from 31,500 to 40,000 gallons of gasoleno daily. Storage tanks for 1,000,000 gallons have just been completed by the company.

Farm Produce.

San Antonio, Feb. 17.—Rio Grande Valley vegetable growers sustained heavy losses as a result of recent storms, but raisers of citrus fruits escaped practically unharmed. Tomato growers did not fare so well. The cantaloupe crop will be delayed but not injured by the cold.

Meeting Is Postponed.

The meeting of Rebekah Friendship circle, to have been held next Tuesday evening has been postponed two weeks on account of illness, it was announced today.

A James Oliver Curwood Story

An awe-inspiring drama of the snow country. See the gorgeous backgrounds of the Yosemite Valley which form a perfect setting for this big, sweeping western picture.

The tale of a man, a woman, a hoswolf and a mighty dog. A compelling drama of self-sacrifice and enduring faith and love.

"Man From Hell's River"

DIRECTED BY AND FEATURING IRVING CUMMINGS AND EVA NOVAK

He mushed back over the long, white trail happy in the thought of his newfound love. Then came anguish to see that the girl had pledged herself to another. See the amazing drama of the Northwest with its sweeping action.

A drama of powerful punches—a picture which sweeps everything before it in its swift rush of plot. And through it all runs a story of the romantic appeal of the Canadian Northwest.

TOUR MAY RESULT IN WELDING OF SOME ROADS

New Directors Start Inspection of Hocking Valley.

REGIONAL OFFICERS OF ERIE ATTEND BANQUET

Miami Valley Traffic Club Holds First Annual Dinner at Dayton.

Officers of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley railroads, both recently acquired by the Van Sweringen interests, of Cleveland, left Cleveland last night on a six-day inspection tour of the roads, according to the Ohio State Journal.

"The outcome of the tour," says the Journal, "may result in bringing true a dream of welding together another railroad group of major importance, composed of the two mentioned roads and the Clover Leaf, Wabash, Lake Erie & Western, and Nickel Plate, all of which are now under Van Sweringen control.

"Recent reports that the Hocking Valley is to be double-tracked are regarded as a forecast of broad plans for expansion of all of the roads in the group.

"The inspection party went from Cleveland to Toledo. It was scheduled to arrive in Columbus about 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

"Inspection will be thorough and will end when the party arrives in Norfolk, Virginia, about next Wednesday," J. J. Bernet, president of the Nickel Plate railroad and a director of the Chesapeake & Ohio announced.

"Only routine business occupied directors of the Hocking Valley and Chesapeake & Ohio, who held a meeting in Cleveland, Friday afternoon. It was said afterward that plans for expansion known to be in process of development and designed to line the proposed consolidation of the five western Van Sweringen roads, and possibly also the Chesapeake & Ohio, into a Greater Nickel Plate system, were held in abeyance until the inspection trip has been made.

"The inspection party included O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Mr. Bernet and W. A. Colston, of the Nickel Plate, and Cleveland industrialists.

"W. J. Harahan, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, was the spokesman for the directors of that road. With him were H. L. Lauderback, of Chicago, and F. M. Whittaker, of Richmond, Virginia, vice president in charge of traffic. The remainder of the directors were of Cleveland.

"Visiting Hocking Valley directors included Francis R. Huntington, of Columbus, and T. J. Davis, vice president of the First National bank of Cincinnati."

Regional traffic officials and division heads of the Erie attended the first annual banquet of the Miami Valley Traffic club at the ball-room of the Miami hotel, Dayton, Thursday evening. About 250 railroad and traffic men attended the banquet. Erie officials were seated together at one table. Those attending included H. R. Adams, of Marion, superintendent of the Kent division; A. R. Tennis, of Marion, division freight agent; W. V. Kennedy, of Chicago, general freight and passenger agent; W. W. Sanders, division freight agent, and D. C. Kern, chief clerk, both of Dayton; L. H. Mann, of Indianapolis, general agent, and J. A. Doelan, of Cincinnati, general agent.

Athletic contests of all kinds for both men and women are included in the program planned for the Third Annual Indoor Championship meet of the Pennsylvania Railroad system at Columbus, April 14. Athletic contests will be staged in the Coliseum at the Ohio State fairground and an all-day dance will be held at the arts building nearby. Several thousand Pennsylvania employes in special trains are expected at the meet, including a delegation from the Toledo division.

One candidate was initiated last night at the meeting of Marion Loyal Star lodge, No. 18, Ladies' auxiliary of Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen at the Machinists' hall on north Main street. After the work, the evening was passed socially.

S. F. Knapp, of Youngstown, auditor of disbursements of the Ohio region of the Erie, was in Marion yesterday.

A. J. Spear, of Huntington, Ind., asst. Division accountant, was in Marion yesterday.

C. L. Ross, of Mansfield, traveling passenger agent for the Erie, was in Marion today.

G. L. Benson, of Mansfield, supervisor of maintenance-of-way for the Erie, was in Marion Saturday.

C. W. Bowers, of Delaware, trainmaster for the C. D. & M. Electric company, was in Marion Friday.

AGREE TO SHIP BILL REVISION

bill. Both provisions were agreed to by Chairman A. D. Lasker, of the United States shipping board.

To Act as Stimulant.

"The amendment restricting the financial aid to government ships only until 1,500,000 gross tons of shipping board vessels are sold will act as a vigorous stimulant on the sale of these ships," said Senator Jones.

"There are now only about 5,000,000 gross tons of government shipping which are marketable. The subsidy would apply only to these ships until half of them are sold and then it would go to privately-owned vessels as well. It would act as an incentive to buy the government ship and then to put the vessel into commerce."

The effort of "farm bloc" Republicans to prevent consideration of the subsidy while taking up the "truth-in-fabrics" bill may be circumvented by these amendments, it was said. The attempt, at least, has been postponed until next week. Democrats meanwhile continued their sweeping opposition.

FRANCE HEADS DEBTOR LIST

House members were expected to offer some opposition to the Harris amendment, providing for three Democrats to go on the commission, but under the direction of Representative Theodore E. Burton, Republican, of Ohio, this opposition was expected to melt away. The other senate provision, giving the commissioners wider latitude in adjusting the debt and compelling them to come to congress for approval of all agreements reached, was met with general approval on both sides.

MAY BUILD AMUSEMENT PARK AT GREENWOOD LAKE

Delaware Gazette Says Reports Are Insistent.

PARK MANAGER SAYS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF MOVE

According to rumors that have been current here for some time and which came more to the fore today, Greenwood lake, one of the most beautiful natural parks in this section of the state, is to be made a place of amusement, similar to the Olentangy park at Columbus, says the Delaware Gazette.

Although the rumors seem to be well founded, R. P. Hills, who has been manager of Greenwood Lake park, owned by F. P. Hills, today declared that he knew nothing more than the rumors of the deal and advised that the park had not yet been sold. The identity of the firm dealing for the park could not be learned.

The firm, said to be of Columbus, has purchased property adjacent to the park, however, it was learned. The filling station at the forks of the road at the entrance of the park has also been bought by the company with the plans for the general development scheme. This deal, although confirmed in reliable sources, has not been officially announced.

According to the rumored plans, the company expects to erect a hotel on the west side of the road, across from Greenwood Lake park for the purpose of attracting people here as a health resort in summer.

C. C. Moyer, superintendent of the C. D. & M. company, today said that neither he nor any officials of the company had been approached in the matter of extending the street car lines to the gates of the park, which, according to Mr. Moyer, would be futile.

ST. MARY'S MUSICAL CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Program Is Given in the School Auditorium.

The St. Mary's Musical club held a meeting Thursday evening in the school auditorium and a very pleasing program was given. The meeting was the first to be held for sometime, but hereafter the meetings will be held regularly every two weeks.

One feature of the meeting this week was the interest shown in the musical definition contest, which was won by Miss Martha Barnhart. Rosella Miller gave a violin selection, "Fantasia," by Mozart, after which Miss Bernardine Sullivan gave "June," by Tchaikowsky. Helen Monnegan and Martha Barnhart contributed piano numbers.
